

THE ADVENTURES OF TALLULAH FROM: UN-BOOK TWO

Written by Sara Madden

Illustrated by Hayley Helsten

THE STORY BLOOM FIELD GUIDE

For readers whose imaginations occasionally escape without permission.

DESIGN YOUR STORY BLOOM

Story Bloom Identification File

Every excellent story deserves one.

Book title:

Author:

My Story Bloom is named:

Draw it:

Its colors are:

It smells like:

It sounds like:

Its personality is:

- ☐ mischievous
- ☐ mysterious
- ☐ dramatic
- ☐ adventurous
- ☐ grumpy
- ☐ ridiculous
- ☐ other:

Why did THIS book create THIS Story Bloom?

WHERE DID THE STORY TAKE YOU?

Good Books Are Suspiciously Portable Doorways.

While reading, I visited:

I met:

Something I could SEE:

Something I could HEAR:

Something I could almost SMELL:

Something I imagined that the author never actually told me:

WORD DETECTIVE

Tallulah Found A Word.

Naturally, we need to investigate.

Word:

Sentence where I found it:

Without looking it up:

I predict it means...

CLUE #1 – What was happening?

CLUE #2 – What words were around it?

CLUE #3 – What would make sense?

ACTUAL DEFINITION:

Was I right?

- ☐ Exactly
- ☐ Close
- ☐ Spectacularly wrong
- ☐ My definition was better

IMAGINATION TEST LABORATORY

Can You Make A Story Bloom Appear?

Set a timer for five minutes.

Read a story.

Then CLOSE THE BOOK.

Without looking back:

Draw the room/place you imagined below:

Then reopen the book.

Investigation:

What details came from the author?

What details came from YOU?

Conclusion: The writer supplies the words. The reader helps build the world.

STORY BLOOM READING CHALLENGE

Feed Your Imagination.

Find:

- ☐ A book about somewhere you've never been
- ☐ A book with a character unlike you
- ☐ A book containing a word you don't know
- ☐ A book that makes you laugh
- ☐ A book that makes you wonder
- ☐ A book someone else loves
- ☐ A book you chose entirely because of its cover

Then complete the following:

The book that surprised me most:

My imagination went wild when:

A book I want to read next:

CAUTION: Regular reading may result in uncontrolled imagination.